

7 CHAKRA COLORS, MEANINGS & LOCATIONS CHART

Chakra Color Therapy: How Colors Affect Healing?

Chakra color therapy is a holistic healing practice that uses the vibrational frequencies of colors to balance the chakras.

- Each of the seven chakra colors is related to specific vibration and frequency.
- Each chakra controls specific physical, mental or spiritual aspect of your life.
- When a chakra is blocked or imbalanced it will cause discomfort or disconnection.

Focusing on chakra colors can help you restore balance in these energy centers and improve problematic areas of your life (health, relations, love, self-expression, etc.)

It is easy to do so by yourself. It simply takes you to incorporate chakra colors into your daily life - through clothing, décor, jewelry, or just by visualization, you can start aligning your chakras and restoring your inner peace.

Chakra Colors Meaning: The Impact of Colors

Let's take a look at the 7 major chakras and their most prominent meanings and energy relations:

1. Red (Root Chakra): Provides grounding and helps release fears and insecurity.
2. Orange (Sacral Chakra): Encourages joy, creativity, and emotional balance.
3. Yellow (Solar Plexus Chakra): Boosts confidence, mental clarity, and personal power.
4. Green (Heart Chakra): Opens the heart to love and emotional healing.
5. Blue (Throat Chakra): Facilitates clear communication and self-expression.
6. Indigo (Third Eye Chakra): Enhances intuition, insight, and spiritual awareness.
7. Violet (Crown Chakra): Connects you to higher consciousness and spiritual enlightenment.

The connection between the 7 Chakras and Vastu Shastra is fundamentally bridged by a concept called the Vastu Purusha Mandala. In Vedic architecture, a physical space is not just a structure of bricks and mortar; it is viewed as a living, breathing organism personified as the Vastu Purusha (the cosmic being).

According to Vastu Shastra, this cosmic being lies face-down across the diagonal grid of any plot or building. His head rests in the Northeast, and his feet are grounded in the Southwest. Because the Vastu Purusha is a reflection of the human energetic body, his physical anatomy directly maps to the 7 Chakras. When a home is designed to align with these directions, it is believed to balance the corresponding chakras of the people living inside.

The Directional Chakra Map

Each cardinal and intercardinal direction governs a specific chakra, element, and aspect of your life. When a room is placed in its proper zone, it nourishes the corresponding chakra.

Direction	Vastu Purusha Anatomy	Governing Chakra	Element	Ideal Room Function	Focus & Attributes
Northeast (Ishan)	Head / Crown	Sahasrara & Ajna (Crown & Third Eye)	Space / Water	Puja room, Meditation, Study	Spiritual growth, clarity, pure consciousness.
North	Throat	Vishuddha (Throat)	Space	Living rooms, Entrances, Safes	Communication, learning, and financial growth.
Northwest (Vayu)	Heart / Lungs	Anahata (Heart)	Air	Guest rooms, Dining, Social spaces	Trust, relationships, movement, and letting go.
Southeast (Agni)	Stomach	Manipura (Solar Plexus)	Fire	Kitchen, Electrical mains	Digestion, physical vitality, power, and fame.
West	Lower Abdomen	Swadhisthana (Sacral)	Water	Children's bedrooms, Bathrooms	Creativity, fulfillment, and identity.
South & Southwest	Feet / Base	Muladhara (Root)	Earth	Master bedroom	Stability, grounding,

Direction	Vastu Purusha Anatomy	Governing Chakra	Element	Ideal Room Function	Focus & Attributes
(Nairutya)				, Heavy storage	support, and hard work.

The Center: The Brahmasthan

The exact center of the building grid is known as the Brahmasthan. It represents the navel or the pure conscious core of the Vastu Purusha. In Chakra anatomy, this is the energetic intersection of life force.

- The Rule: Vastu dictates that the Brahmasthan must be kept completely open, well-lit, and free of clutter or heavy pillars.
- The Impact: If the center is blocked by a heavy structure (like a staircase or a bathroom), it stifles the flow of cosmic energy to all other directions, leading to stagnation, heaviness, and confusion in the occupants' lives.

How Misalignments Cause "Vastu Dosha"

When a home's layout violates this grid, it creates a Vastu Dosha (imbalance), which directly impacts the corresponding chakra of the inhabitants:

- Kitchen in the Northeast: The kitchen is ruled by Fire (Manipura), but the Northeast is the Head (Crown Chakra/Water element). Putting a fire in the zone of mental clarity causes agitation, disrupts peace of mind, and can lead to stress or health issues.
- Toilet in the Southwest: The Southwest is the Root Chakra (Muladhara), responsible for stability and financial grounding. A toilet here flushes away that grounding energy, often manifesting as career instability or physical fatigue.

Fixing a Vastu Dosha (imbalance) doesn't always require tearing down walls. When structural changes aren't an option, you can correct the energy flow using the principle of elemental balancing.

Since each direction is tied to a specific element and chakra, you can "cure" an imbalanced zone by introducing the right colors, metals, or objects to restore harmony.

Here is how you can use these non-structural remedies to balance your space.

1. Color Therapy (The Easiest Fix)

Colors emit frequencies that can stimulate or calm the chakras associated with a specific room. If a room is in the wrong direction, painting it (or using curtains, rugs, and cushions) in the correct elemental color can neutralize the defect.

- North & Northeast (Water / Throat & Crown Chakras): Use light blues, sea greens, and whites. These colors promote clarity and calm. Avoid reds or dark yellows here.
- East & Southeast (Fire / Solar Plexus Chakra): Introduce warm colors like light red, orange, peach, or pink to support vitality and digestion.
- South & Southwest (Earth / Root Chakra): Ground the energy with earthy tones—ochre, mustard yellow, beige, and brown. This stabilizes career and relationships.
- West & Northwest (Air & Space / Heart & Sacral Chakras): Use whites, light greys, metallic tones, or pastel shades to encourage movement and creativity.

2. Metal Strips and Wires (Energy Blockers)

In Vastu, metals are used to "cut" or block negative energy from a wrongly placed room—most commonly a toilet or a kitchen. You can insert a thin strip of the corresponding metal into the floor (under the door threshold) or stick it to the skirting board to act as an energetic boundary.

Direction of Defect	Governing Element	Remedy Metal to Use
North / Northeast	Water	Aluminum or Silver
East / Southeast	Fire	Copper
South / Southwest	Earth	Brass
West / Northwest	Space / Air	Iron or Stainless Steel

Example: If you have a bathroom in the Southeast (which disrupts the Fire element and the Solar Plexus chakra), placing a copper strip on the floor across the bathroom doorway contains the negative energy.

3. Corrective Objects

Specific objects can act as energetic anchors, absorbing negativity or amplifying positive flow.

- Sea Salt (For Absorption): Uncrushed sea salt is a powerful absorber of negative energy. If you have a severe Vastu defect (like a toilet in the Northeast or center of the house), place a glass bowl of sea salt in the corner of that room. Crucial: Replace the salt every week, flushing the old salt away.
- Vastu Pyramids (For Harmonizing): Pyramids concentrate and harmonize energy. Small metal or crystal pyramids can be placed in areas where the Vastu Purusha's anatomy is "missing" (e.g., if your house layout is an L-shape and is missing a corner).
- Water Features (For Flow): A small, flowing indoor fountain placed in the North or Northeast enhances financial flow and communication (Throat Chakra). Ensure the water is always clean and moving.
- Mirrors (For Expansion): Mirrors visually and energetically double whatever they reflect. Place mirrors on the North or East walls to pull positive energy inward. Never place a mirror where it reflects the bed, as this is believed to drain the body's energy during sleep.
- Camphor (For Cleansing): Burning pure camphor, or simply leaving camphor crystals in a bowl in areas that feel stagnant, clears heavy, stuck energy and purifies the air.

In Vedic astrology (Jyotish) and Tantric traditions, the 7 Chakras are deeply intertwined with the planetary energies (Navagraha). Each chakra acts as a receiver for a specific planet's cosmic frequency. By chanting the specific Beeja (seed) mantra and using resonant stones on the correct days, you can clear blockages and align your physical body with these cosmic forces.

The Chakra & Planetary Alignment Guide

Here is the complete mapping of each chakra to its ruling Vedic planet, seed mantra, corresponding stones, and the most auspicious day to energize them.

Chakra	Vedic Planet	Beeja Mantra	Best Stones	Auspicious Day
1. Root (Muladhara)	Saturn (Shani) / Mars	LAM (लं)	Red Jasper, Bloodstone, Black Tourmaline	Saturday or Tuesday
2. Sacral (Swadhisthana)	Jupiter (Guru) / Venus	VAM (वं)	Carnelian, Orange Calcite, Hessonite	Thursday or Friday
3. Solar Plexus (Manipura)	Mars (Mangal) / Sun	RAM (रं)	Citrine, Yellow Sapphire, Tiger's Eye	Tuesday or Sunday
4. Heart (Anahata)	Venus (Shukra) / Moon	YAM (यं)	Rose Quartz, Green Aventurine, Emerald	Friday or Monday
5. Throat (Vishuddha)	Mercury (Budh)	HAM (हं)	Lapis Lazuli, Turquoise, Blue Sapphire	Wednesday
6. Third Eye (Ajna)	Sun (Surya) / Moon	OM (ॐ)	Amethyst, Clear Quartz, Diamond	Sunday or Monday
7. Crown (Sahasrara)	Rahu / Ketu (Beyond)	OM (or Silence)	Clear Quartz, Selenite, Amethyst	Thursday or Full Moon

(Note: While Western astrology has its own planetary mappings, the above reflects the traditional Vedic/Yogic system where the lower chakras anchor to heavy planets like Saturn, and move upward toward the luminaries).

How to Energize Your Stones

Before using a stone for chakra work, it must be cleared of old stagnant energy and "programmed" with your intention and the relevant mantra.

1.Cleanse (Physical & Energetic):Do this immediately upon acquiring the stone.

Wash the stone in running water. Then, submerge it in a bowl of water mixed with a pinch of uncrushed sea salt for 2-4 hours to draw out negative frequencies. (Note: Skip the salt water for porous stones like Lapis Lazuli or Turquoise; use sage smoke instead).

2.Charge via the Elements:Do this on the specific auspicious day.

Place the cleansed stone on the earth or a windowsill where it can absorb direct sunlight (for active/fiery stones like Citrine or Carnelian) or moonlight (for cooling stones like Rose Quartz or Amethyst) for at least 4 hours.

3.Program with Beeja Mantra:Seals the specific frequency into the stone.

Hold the charged stone in your right hand. Close your eyes, focus on the corresponding chakra, and chant its Beeja Mantra 108 times (using a rudraksha mala or simply counting). Visualize the chakra's color filling the stone.

Daily Morning Chakra Ritual (10-15 Minutes)

To maintain harmony, you don't need to do a complex ritual every day. A short, focused sequence using the Beeja mantras is enough to activate the planetary energies before you start your workday.

1. Grounding: Sit comfortably facing East or North. Hold your energized stone (choose one based on which chakra needs the most support that day, or use Clear Quartz for overall balance) in your receiving (left) hand.
2. The Ascent: Close your eyes and bring your attention to the base of your spine (Root Chakra). Visualize a red glowing wheel. Take a deep breath, and on the exhale, chant LAM aloud, feeling the vibration at the base of your spine. Repeat 3 times.
3. Move Upward: Move your attention up to the Sacral area (orange), chant VAM 3 times. Continue this process up the spine: RAM (navel/yellow), YAM (heart/green), HAM (throat/blue), OM (between eyebrows/indigo).

4. The Crown: Finally, focus on the top of your head (Crown). Chant OM one long time, and then sit in absolute silence for 2-3 minutes, allowing the energy to settle.
